A Prospect of Mount Athos, called Monte Santo, or the Holy Mountain. N. B. This most famous Mountain is called Athos, from Athon a Son of Neptune, situate in Macedonia, lying directly West from Lemnos, and so high, that tho' it be 700 Furlongs Descent, yet a little before the Setting of the Sun, it casts a Shadow over the greatest Part of the Island: It is above three Days Journey in Length, and half a Day's Journey over, the Top whereof resembles two Pyramids; and what is prodigious, a vast Torrent of most clear Water flows from the Point of the Mountain. It is inhabited by the Clergy of the Greek Church, subject to the Patriarch of Constantinople, in Number about six Thousand, who never eat Flesh, and great part of the Year eat no Fish; they never marry, are most exact in observing the sacred Institutions of the Church of Christ, of which this is a glorious Branch. The Clergy of this Place, for their Strictness of Life, and pure Primitive Piety, are greatly reverenced and relieved by many Christian Princes: In their Monasteries they have preserved many ancient and curious Manuscripts. To conclude, they are at this Day very zealous Labourers in the Vineyard of Christ. Done from the original Drawing, brought over by the Reverend Gennadius, Archimandrite of Alexandria, now in London.
